Course Description:

When reflecting on your various identities and those ascribed to you, how does experiencing them shape the way you see yourself and view the World? In this course, we will journey together to explore some of the narratives we hold surrounding our various identities. We will individually and collectively dissect some of the impacts of these narratives and examine their psychosocial effects on ourselves and the communities to which we belong. We will boldly create safe spaces for one another to explore what healing may look like within ourselves and our communities. This will be done through a process of re-naming, re-claiming, re-shaping and re-imagining how we show up in the world. In this way, dignity and its power of honoring the value and worth of self and other, will become part of the fabric of our understanding and experience.

*Using Talibah Aquil’s Arts Based Research Practicum Presentation “Ghana, Remember Me...” (September 12 at 6:30 p.m. in the Main Stage Theater) as a guide, you will also have the opportunity to creatively explore how to share in class your journey of re-imagining identity, using whatever medium you feel most connected to.

Course Goals and Objectives:

1. Examine the intersections of identity, story-telling, language and dignity.
2. Explore how we see ourselves, how the world views us and how we uphold the dignity of others through our interactions with them and when sharing their stories.
3. Examine Amartya Sen’s concept of the “plurality of affiliation” to understand that the creative power of differences is deeply linked to and dependent on honoring identity and dignity.

4. Develop skills for the purpose of analyzing literature and media that denigrates others, while exploring alternative language that honors others (and self).

5. Learning to create and hold safe and ‘brave’ spaces to listen to and interacting with others.

6. Find ways to integrate course learnings in one’s professional work and community.

7. Study and practice Self-care (for Other-care) as a life-skill.

Required Texts and Other Resources:

4. Transforming Historical Harms. David Anderson Hooker and Amy Potter Czajkowski. EMU (n.d.) (Selected chapters posted on Moodle)

Other articles (from journals and newspapers, as well as from social media and the web), will be handed out and/or presented in class. There is also an expectation that students will bring relevant articles (and videos) to the attention of the class.

Required Assignments:

1. Full participation in class. Regular attendance is essential.

2. Reading all assigned material. Total pages: 1000-1,500 for 3-credit students. 500-1000 pages for 2 credit students.

Weekly Assigned Reading Exercise: All course participants are expected to read one or two assigned articles or book chapters prior to each class (unless otherwise stated in the Weekly Schedule). Everyone taking the course for credit is required to post their response to the article(s) on the PAX 692 Moodle discussion page. This is an opportunity to develop an approximately 250-word critical response to the text for your colleagues to read and respond to. This response is not a summary of the document, but an insight or set of insights you are drawing from it. You may want to pose a question as well which colleagues may decide to address in their responses to what you’ve posted. (weekly reading assignments are found in the Weekly Agenda which will be handed out the first day of class.) The instructors will monitor this process on Moodle and from time to time post comments and responses. Your postings will help in our class discussion about the subject. This will be done in both small group settings and in plenary.

3. Case Study, Comprehensive Reflection Paper or Arts/Social Media Presentation: The assumption of this class is that peacebuilding includes the intersections of identity, story-telling, language and dignity. Keep this in mind as you choose one of the following for a final/near-end of course presentation:

   Case Study: You will be asked to do a presentation of the process(es) you used, the thinking and feelings you went through in doing this assignment and the outcomes of findings and recommendations your making. This study will be presented toward the end of the semester. Some suggestions include the following:

   A. A situation grounded in your own context (or interest area)
   B. Build on/expand the work you are already doing in one or more of these fields (psychosocial change, identity, narrative change, dignity). Deepen the connection between them for your ongoing or future work.
   C. Any other avenue you want to pursue within the framework of the course topic areas.

   Arts/Social Media: If you decide to use this approach, your work should convey elements noted in the Final Paper sections (below), but presented through an arts-based or social media lens. Please select the audience to whom you want to present your work. Discuss ideas beforehand with instructors and class members, then write a 250-word proposal, which will be followed by further discussion with the instructor.

   Final Paper: The paper should capture either an overall reaction to the course materials and class discussions or a specific course topic that changed your way of thinking as well as how you will practice building peace and justice regarding the intersectionality of identity, story-telling, language and dignity. The (Length of paper: 15-18 pages double space for 3 credit students; 10-12 pages for 2 credit students.)

   The instructors are also open to discuss alternatives to the above, which might involve a class project done on campus or in the community.

Except for the Final Paper, you may work in pairs or groups re: Case Study; Arts/Social Media project—or another project you decide upon.

Professional/Education/Training/1 credit requirements: Regular class attendance, reading assignments for each class (posting on the Moodle discussion page is required for anyone taking the course for credit and encouraged for all participants), and participate fully in class discussions. Also, all students are encouraged to write a short reflection paper.
mid-way and at the end of the class (this paper is required for those taking the course for 1 credit). One can choose to reflect on a specific topic area, or write a reflection regarding the meaning of the subjects for you and/or your work. The papers should be between 3 and 5 pages each, double spaced.

Student Evaluation - 100 Total Points

Class Participation
20 points: Attendance and full engagement in class discussion is expected.

Assigned Reading(s) & Weekly Postings
30 points (See #2 above)

Cases Study, Final Paper/Arts Project or full class project
50 points: Case Study will involve a 25-30 minute presentation of your work, plus leading a 15- minute discussion with class participants. If you developed a final paper, it will involve a 10 to 15-minute presentation that summarizes your paper and a 10 minute discussion period. Art/Media projects will be negotiated with the instructors and require a 30 to 40- minute presentation in class followed by discussion.
SUPPLEMENTAL INFORMATION FOR COURSE SYLLABI:  Last updated August 2019

Writing Guidelines:
Writing will be a factor in evaluation: EMU has adopted a set of writing guidelines for graduate programs that include six sets of criteria: content, structure, rhetoric & style, information literacy, source integrity, and conventions (see page 3). It is expected that graduates will be able to write at least a “good” level with 60% writing at an “excellent” level. For the course papers, please follow the APA style described in CJP’s GUIDELINES for GRADUATE PAPERS (see CJP Student Resources Moodle page or request a copy from the Academic Program Coordinator), unless directed otherwise by the instructor.

Academic Integrity Policy (AIP):
EMU faculty and staff care about the integrity of their own work and the work of their students. They create assignments that promote interpretative thinking and work intentionally with students during the learning process. Honesty, trust, fairness, respect, and responsibility are characteristics of a community that is active in loving mercy and doing justice. EMU defines plagiarism as occurring when a person presents as one’s own someone else’s language, ideas, or other original (not common-knowledge) material without acknowledging its source (Adapted from the Council of Writing Program Administrators). This course will apply EMU’s AIP to any events of academic dishonesty. If you have doubts about what is appropriate, Indiana University's Plagiarism Tutorials and Tests may be a useful resource.

Turnitin:
Students are accountable for the integrity of the work they submit. Thus, you should be familiar with EMU’s Academic Integrity Policy (see above) in order to meet the academic expectations concerning appropriate documentation of sources. In addition, EMU is using Turnitin, a learning tool and plagiarism prevention system. For CJP classes, you may be asked to submit your papers to Turnitin from Moodle.

Moodle:
Moodle is the online learning platform that EMU has chosen to provide to faculty, administrators and students. Students will have access to course information within Moodle for any class they are registered for in a given term. The amount of time a student has access to information before and after the class is somewhat dependent on the access given to students by the individual faculty member. However, please note that courses are not in Moodle permanently – after two years the class will no longer be accessible. Please be sure to download resources from Moodle that you wish to have ongoing access to.

Technology Requirements and Communication (if joining a class by zoom):
Communication will largely be accomplished via the Moodle platform utilized by EMU and your EMU email. Check both frequently during the semester. In addition, during class synchronous sessions, it will be expected that you will use a noise-reducing headset to minimize background noise and disruption. Remember to keep your headsets UNMUTED during the sessions and avoid moving, brushing, touching or fumbling with them as it creates unwanted noise in the class space.

Graduate & Professional Studies Writing Center:
Please utilize the writing program! They offer free individual tutoring from a graduate student tutor. Please visit the website to schedule an appointment.

Institutional Review Board (IRB):
All research conducted by or on EMU faculty, staff or students must be reviewed by the Institutional Review Board to assure participant safety.

Grading Scale & Feedback:
In most courses grades will be based on an accumulation of numerical points that will be converted to a letter grade at the end of the course (several CJP courses are graded pass/fail). Assignments will receive a score expressed as a fraction, with the points received over the total points possible (e.g. 18/20). The following is the basic scale used for evaluation. Points may be subtracted for missed deadlines.

95-100 = A outstanding
90-94 = A- excellent
85-89 = B+ very good
80-84 = B good
76-79 = B- satisfactory
73-75 = C+ passing
70-72 = C unsatisfactory
Below 70 = F failing

Graduate students are expected to earn A’s & B’s. A GPA of 3.0 for MA students and 2.75 for GC students is the minimum requirement for graduation.

Regarding feedback on papers/projects: Students can expect to receive papers/assignments back in a class with faculty feedback before the next paper/assignment is due. This commitment from faculty assumes that the student has turned the paper in on the agreed upon due date.

Library
The Hartzler Library offers research support (via e-mail, chat, phone, or SSC campus) and the library home page offers subject guides to help start your research.

Office of Academic Access:
If you have a physical, psychological, medical or learning disability that may impact your work in this course, it is your responsibility to contact the Office of Academic Access in the Academic Success Center on the third floor of the Hartzler Library. They will work with you to establish eligibility and to coordinate reasonable accommodations. All information and documentation is treated confidentially.

Class Attendance:
Students are expected to attend all class meetings. If unusual or emergency circumstances prevent class attendance, the student should notify the professor in advance if possible. Multiple absences from class will result in lower grades. The student is responsible for the material presented in classes missed (from EMU Graduate Catalog). Students should be aware of the importance of regular class attendance, particularly in the case of CJP classes that only meet once a week or over several weekends. Being absent for more than one class leads to a student missing a large portion of the class content. In addition to consistent class attendance, students should make every effort to arrive to class on time out of respect for the learning process, fellow students and faculty.

Course Extensions and Outstanding Grades:
For fall and spring semesters, all coursework is due by the end of the semester. If a student will not be able to complete a course on time, the student must submit a request one week before the end of the semester for an extension (up to 6 months), by emailing the instructor, academic advisor and the Academic Program Coordinator. If the request is granted the student will receive an “I (incomplete) for the course which will later be replaced by a final grade when the work has been turned in on the agreed upon date. If the request for an extension is denied, the student will receive a grade for the work that has been completed up until the time the course was expected to have been completed. If no work has been submitted, the final grade will be an F (or W under unusual circumstances and with permission of the Program Director). Extensions will be given only for legitimate and unusual situations. Extensions are contracted by the student with the program for up to a maximum of 6 months after the deadline for the course work. PLEASE NOTE: Grades for coursework submitted late may be reduced at the instructor’s discretion and in line with their course policy on turning in coursework after the due date. If the extension deadline is not met, the instructor will submit the final grade based on what has been received to date.
Inclusive, Community-Creating Language Policy:
Eastern Mennonite University expects all its faculty, staff, and students to adopt inclusive written and spoken language that welcomes everyone regardless of race or ethnicity, gender, disabilities, age, and sexual orientation. We will use respectful and welcoming language in all our official departmental documents and correspondence, including those put forth by way of Internet communication, and throughout all academic coursework, inclusive of classroom presentations and conversations, course syllabi, and both written and oral student assessment materials (see CJP Student Resources moodle page or request a complete copy along with best practices from the Academic Program Coordinator).

Title IX:
The following policy applies to any incidents that occur (on or off campus) while you are a student registered at EMU. It does not apply if you are talking about incidents that happened prior your enrollment at EMU. It is important for you to know that all faculty and staff members are required to report known or alleged incidents of sexual violence (including sexual assault, domestic/relationship violence, stalking). That means that faculty and staff members cannot keep information about sexual violence confidential if you share that information with them. For example, if you inform a faculty or staff member of an issue of sexual harassment, sexual assault, or discrimination he/she will keep the information as private as he/she can, but is required to bring it to the attention of the institution’s Title IX Coordinator. You can also report incidents or complaints through the online portal. You may report, confidentially, incidents of sexual violence if you speak to Counseling Services counselors, Campus Ministries’ pastors, or Health Services personnel providing clinical care. These individuals, as well as the Title IX Coordinator, can provide you with information on both internal & external support resources. Please refer to the Student Handbook for additional policies, information, and resources available to you.

Criteria for Evaluating Arts-Based Peacebuilding Projects

Background notes:

• Arts approaches can be used in several different stages of a project:
  1. To gain or create knowledge. (For example, research “subjects” or participants might be engaged in an arts-based project as a way of soliciting information or encouraging insight.)
  2. To add complexity or nuance to created knowledge. (For example, an arts practice may serve as one method in a multi-method research project, creating an integrated, reflective methodology for the project. Alternatively, an arts practice could be used to analyze and/or interpret data collected by conventional methods.)
  3. To test knowledge. (For example, researchers might verify their interpretation of findings from a more traditional research process by creating a play or exhibit and testing it for resonance with their subjects.)
  4. To share findings. (For example, a play or exhibit might be created to (re)-present data collected or analyzed via conventional methods in order to impart the particular kinds of meaning the researcher considers important, and as a way to reach and engage a broader audience.)
  5. As a form of intervention. (For example, a project might be designed to raise awareness of an issue or conflict, to promote dialogue on a contested issue, or to advocate for a cause.)

• Arts-based products often do not specify methodologies used. Thus it may be important for a project to be accompanied by a short paper discussing analysis, theory of change, audience, goals, and methods used.

• Patricia Leavy, in “Method Meets Art: Arts-based Research Practice” (New York: Guilford Press) 2009, argues that “[t]raditional conceptions of validity and reliability, which developed out of positivism, are inappropriate for evaluating artistic inquiry.” (p. 15). She suggests that authenticity, trustworthiness, and validity can be assessed through attention to such elements as aesthetics, resonance, and vigor.

• For a discussion of standards, see “Method Meets Art” (Leavy, 2009: 15ff and Chapter 8).
